The objective of the Communication-B requirement is to develop advanced skills in:

- critical reading, logical thinking, and the use of evidence
- the use of appropriate style and disciplinary convention in writing and speaking
- the productive use of core library resources specific to the discipline

Requirements for Communications-B credit:

- numerous writing assignments that total 35-40 pages of writing (don't panic, drafts count in the total number of pages written)
- at least two assignments that require students to write a draft, get feedback, and write a revision
- at least one individual conference between the student and instructor
- at least one opportunity for public speaking

Grading:

- The only work that will be given a letter grade is your final paper.
- The 4 writing assignments will be given a check-minus, check, or check-plus. You must revise at least one of these assignments for a higher mark. Any of these assignments may be revised and resubmitted for a higher mark.
- All of the work leading up to the final paper will be taken into consideration when determining the grade of the final paper.
• Policies
  § Every member of this class will be treated with respect both in the class and when responding to their writing.
  § If you miss a class, it is your responsibility to find out what was covered in class and when any assignments are due. Missing the previous class is not an acceptable reason for turning in a late assignment.
